

Choiseul 100 AFRICA

Economic Leaders for Tomorrow

2020

In partnership with

Pascal Lorot

Chairman, Institut Choiseul

Faces of the Africa of Tomorrow

I am delighted to present the newest edition - already the seventh - of the Choiseul 100 Africa, a ranking independently carried out by the Institut Choiseul in order to honour the 100 most talented young African economic leaders of their generation.

2020 was a trying year for all of us. Undoubtedly, the world economy will be durably affected by the consequences of this health crisis and business life will note that uncertainty knows no law and that we should stand ready to deal with unpredictability.

In this troubling context, the African continent managed to cope with the crisis exemplarily. Thanks to this rare experience in managing epidemics and pro-active policies dedicated to curb the impact on the population and the economy, Africa came through this crisis relatively better than the old continent. Moreover, Africa was able to rely on this young generation of economic leaders who have been brought to light by the Institut Choiseul since 2014.

These leaders are not used to accept defeat. Throughout this crisis, they demonstrated great qualities of resilience and upsurge. Self-sacrifice, combativeness and courage are the values that our laureates have had to show to emerge stronger.

Whether they are company directors, creative young entrepreneurs, talents of the new economy or leaders of prestigious institutions, these exceptional personalities managed to reinvent their business and management model to weather to economic storm and move forward despite the turbulences of the crisis.

The world that comes after is just around the corner and promises us multiple mutations. In this context, our laureates can rely on the Institut Choiseul of which the Choiseul 100 Africa initiative is of particular importance this year to grasp the future with serenity: explore new forms of bilateral cooperation between Africa, France and Europe, promote a dynamic of meetings and solidarity, share our experiences and create connections and synergies.

I would like to congratulate our new laureates who represent the continent in all its diversity and who show the new faces of the African economic governance.

I also wish to warmly thank the partners that have accompanied us in this new edition. This year more than ever their commitment with us is the evidence of the faith they have in the development of the continent.

PRESENTATION

Economic Leaders for Tomorrow

The philosophy behind the study

The Choiseul 100 Africa is an annual study independently carried out by the Institut Choiseul. It identifies and ranks the young African leaders of 40 years old and below, who will play a major role in the continent's economic development in the near future.

The Choiseul 100 Africa is a result of a work conducted over several months. The Institut Choiseul reached out to many experts and specialists on the continent to achieve this ambitious and unique study which draws up an inventory of the African economic forces.

Methodology of the study

■ A three-phase project

■ Unfolding of the study

The Choiseul 100 Africa study was independently carried out by the Institut Choiseul between winter 2019 and winter 2020 and was based on four main steps:

- Definition of the methodology and objectives
- Update of the 2019 ranking
- Search and selection of new profiles
- Validation and preparation of the final ranking highlighting the 100 most promising young African business leaders

■ Eligibility conditions

Only profiles meeting the following specific conditions have been selected:

- Being a citizen of one of the 54 African states
- Being 40 years old or below on the 31st of December 2020
- Being an active contributor to the economic development of Africa

■ The selection criteria

To rank the selected profiles, several weighted criteria were taken into account such as: image and reputation, background and skills, power and function, influence and networks, potential and leadership.

The total score obtained in the different categories of criteria determines the position of each laureate in the final ranking. Profiles with less than 10% in any of the categories are eliminated.

The first 100 are ranked from the 1st to the 100th place. A second list discloses profiles ranked between the 101st and 200th place in three categories: three stars, two stars and one star.

The study was stopped on September, 30th 2020, and no career development has been taken into account after this date.

Thanks

For the realization of the Choiseul 100 Africa 2020, the Institut Choiseul was supported by corporate partners that we want to thank here : Deloitte, Chargeurs, Yves Rocher, Vicat, Roland Berger. Their support and their trust were essential for the realization of our work, the publication and the distribution of this study.

OUR PARTNERS

Economic Leaders for Tomorrow

The word from

Brice Chasles

Managing Partner
Deloitte Afrique

Our partnership with the Institut Choiseul is in line with a dual ambition that we share: the identification of talents and the impact on the continent, which are deeply intertwined.

As an African actor leader of professional services, Deloitte Africa is first and foremost defined by the 1,300 African professionals operating from 13 countries in the Maghreb (Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia), in West Africa (UEMOA area) and in Central Africa (CEMAC area). On a continental scale, these are more than 9,000 collaborators distributed across 51 offices, that accompany public and private actors in realizing their strategic projects.

The strong growth of our business, driven by a dynamic and attractive continent, leads us to the hiring of nearly 300 professionals by year, only for Francophone Africa. This ambitious goal drives us even more to respond to the challenges of identification, training and retention of our talents. In the same spirit as the Choiseul ranking, we are searching for the talents of tomorrow, not only for the men and women that will become our top management team, but also for young talents as well as this “middle management”, the cornerstone of our business’s sustainability.

Our line of work is technical: Deloitte offers professional services in audit & risk services, accounting expertise, and financial, legal and fiscal advisory consulting. But our work also requires cross-disciplinary skills, cultural agility, the ability to foster collective intelligence, to manage diverse teams, precise knowledge of the local economy and commercial appetite.

Finally, our collaborators are driven by the desire to positively impact the economic and social development of their communities and of the continent as a whole. Our global ambition, Make an impact that matters, is fulfilled in Africa and finds there its meaning, probably more so than in other regions of the world. The strategic projects which we work on with our clients often have a direct impact on economic development, contribute to direct job creation, to the improvement of governance, to the financing of structural projects, to the establishment of better international standards adapted to Africa,... it is this goal that drives our professionals and that we transpires from this ranking. Each and every one of them contributes to it.

We congratulate the winners, those of this year, but also those of previous editions, who by their role and influence impact the continent’s dynamic and perception.

The word from

Michaël Fribourg

Founded in 1972 and established industrially and commercially in 90 countries on 5 continents, Chargeurs is the world leader of high-value niche markets.

The Group is n°1 worldwide in fabrics and particularly the high-end market but also technical clothes, n°1 worldwide in temporary surface protection, n°1 worldwide in high-end wool and also n°1 worldwide in design solutions and services to museums.

By renewing its support to the Choiseul 100 Africa program, the Chargeurs Group confirms its engagement with respect to a voluntary and engaged community representing the future of a blooming industry and economy. Creating what has become the African Davos, Pascal Lorot, president of the Choiseul Institute, has created a forum and a hub of great talents that are building an Africa in which Chargeurs means to implicate itself to launch its solutions in high-potential markets.

Listed and publicly recognised worldwide, Chargeurs benefits from a pioneering presence in Africa that relies on partnerships and local talents whose base I intend to continually grow. The growth of real estate and of fashion in several reference African countries can rely on and take advantage of the expertise and technology developed and spread worldwide by our line of work, and we will do it while building, with the best talents of tomorrow, implantation and distribution partnerships.

Under the new and international impulse that I have given the group, Chargeurs is accelerating its growth and intends to reinforce and implant itself in the short term in high potential African areas, drawing benefit from the expertise and the standards set by the Groupe that are illustrated by our new global signature, shared by all our lines of work, High Emotion Technology, which guarantees to all our clients and future clients a high level of quality and service.

As an example, Chargeurs has, since 2016, implanted in Ethiopia - on Hawassa's complex, a new reference global site for its Fashion Technologies branch, in support of emerging African brands and large global fashion providers. The growth potential of this new structure is tremendous and we intend to replicate this partnership process all over the continent. With its diversity and exceptional emulation, Africa can proudly rely on the talents that Choiseul 100 Africa spots and supports. Your future is yours to build. You can count on us now and tomorrow to support your new ambitions.

The word from

Bris Rocher

Chief Executive Officer
Groupe Rocher

@Gwenael Salio

The rise of Africa will reshuffle the cards. The decades to come will most likely be strongly affected by the continent's demographic expansion. Indeed, the African population is looking to double in size by 2050.

Numerous economists tell us that the 21st century will undoubtedly be African. The continent will host more than a quarter of the world's population in 2050 and close to half in 2100, which will make it the planet's biggest population pool, far ahead of India and China.

This demographic transition and the ability of certain African countries to fit into globalization must encourage us to give this continent the consideration it deserves.

Today the economy is diversifying rapidly. In addition to the traditional mining or agricultural industries, vulnerable to predatory behaviour or short-term management, we have the telecommunications sector, the finance sector and the transformation industry. Specifically, the driving force of development now rests more and more on consumption and retail.

Africa, rich in natural resources and bestowed with a youth that aspires before all else to be a consumer of globalization, attracts more and more foreign investors. In this regard, Europe, as main investor in the continent and France, considering its historical, geographical and linguistic proximity are key allies of the continent.

In addition to all this, there is a type of diversification and spreading of risk that distinguishes this continent from India and China. Indeed, this fragmented region is less vulnerable to political, economic and monetary fluctuations. In this regard, it can never be completely in crisis.

Finally, what is encouraging is that with 80% of its arable lands yet to be planted, Africa has the potential to feed the planet.

We cannot ignore this groundswell. This is why the Yves Rocher Brand has decided to invest in the continent through a network of over 150 standalone stores. Developed since 1959 by Mr. Yves Rocher, the Brand intends to make its mark so as to be a key player in the world's transformation process.

To conclude, I would like to welcome the initiative launched by the Institut Choiseul, which contributes to the emergence of talents to guide this incredible movement for the continent and our planet as well. Finally, the importance of the number of women represented deserves to be highlighted, as they represent, with no doubt, the best of Africa's future.

The word from

Guy Sidos

Chairman & Chief Executive Officer
Vicat Group

Led by an impressive demographic dynamism – by 2050, four human beings under twenty out of ten will be African – the African continent is experiencing incredible societal and economic mutations, whose translation can be seen in the explosion of its urban growth (soon, one billion of Africans will live in cities).

The needs in terms of infrastructure, of housing, of schools, of hospitals, or of zones of economic activity, will be equal to these mutations, which will simultaneously need to rise to the challenge of climate change, so that the continent may still be inhabitable by the human race.

The importance of such needs in such a short time frame is unheard of. We will need to learn to perform well but also perform quickly, and in all possible business sectors. This will only be possible with the development of the abilities and qualifications of the workforce, without which there will be no improvement in quality, regardless of the technologies used. The evolution of the new African economic elites is very encouraging in that regard. The Choiseul 100 Africa ranking is an excellent illustration of this, giving positive signals for all investors interested by this continent of the future that is Africa.

The cement group Vicat has been present in Africa for twenty years with one simple strategy: produce locally to build locally. Indeed, we are convinced that future models of economic development will need to limit the carbon footprint of their product and merchandise shipping. Besides the quality of industrial processes, proximity will be more than ever an asset. That is the reason why we have strongly invested in Africa in well-functioning cement and industrial plants, respectful of the environment, whose value and job creation bring economic and social benefits to the areas where they are located. Our corporate Foundations get involved as close to the field as possible to communicate the values of Louis Vicat which resonate also through the Francophonie.

We are equally convinced that cement is the building material of the future for Africa as well as for the planet, since as of today there is no other material that is as modern, as easy to use and as cheap that can satisfy the needs at the continent's scale. The latest developments in terms of research and development show that cement adapts better to the circular economy's local distribution channels, integrating material or energy recovery of the waste produced by human activity. In that, it is an even more relevant solution to the challenges of the African continent.

Our teams reflect the image of African dynamism: passionate, engaged, willing, and we are proud to be partners of the Choiseul 100 Africa, which knows how to value and encourage the economic leaders to build a better and more human world.

2020 has been a year of concerns, but also a year full of determination and resilience to withstand the crisis triggered by the Covid-19. In Africa especially, the social, economic and health crisis raised serious concerns. However, these events have revealed the resilience of African socio-economic systems. States reacted well and they managed to protect their populations. This is tremendously positive on the capacity of countries to resist. Moreover, Roland Berger has accompanied some African economies in their recovery plan. Also, despite risks and uncertainties, Africa goes on performing toward a more inclusive growth.

2020 was also raised greater awareness of the necessity of implementing a better gender equality and an increased inclusion of women within the African economies. This topic is more and more taken into account and addressed by African governments. Roland Berger also supports this movement to see greater equality between women and men in the continent. We do believe that African women are essential to build Africa and the world of tomorrow.

These challenges are as exciting as they are demanding for economic leaders of tomorrow. Besides, it is with a great conviction that Roland Berger is betting on Africa and its talents. We do believe in the potential and the emergence of the African continent. Our firm has been deeply rooted for a long time in the continent with strong activities in dozens of countries. We managed to identify the challenges and opportunities of each of them and to recognize the talents of the leaders who boost the economy.

Rare are the territories where opportunities are as numerous and diverse. That is why we are proud to be partners of the Choiseul 100 Africa, because this initiative permits to bring to light and to build bridges between the key economic actors of the continent. It is an incredible opportunity for women and men to leave their mark, to have a positive and sustainable impact in Africa and in the world. The future and prosperity of Africa is in their hands and they will for sure know the expected success.

The Institut Choiseul is an independent and non-partisan think-tank dedicated to the analysis of contemporary strategic issues and international economic questions. Based in Paris, its ambition is to create independent dialogue spaces at the crossroad of the political and institutional world, of the economic scene and the sphere of ideas, in order to enhance debates on today's key problematics.

The Institut Choiseul has become through the years a discoverer of talents and has published since 2014 the Choiseul 100 Africa – The Economic Leaders for Tomorrow, a ranking of reference which compiles the young leaders and entrepreneurs of 40 years old and below, playing or expected to play a major role in Africa's economic development.

In order to remain as close as possible to its laureates, the Institut has organized Choiseul Africa Summits since 2015. Thanks to these prestigious events, organized alternatively in France and in Africa, the Institut multiplies the meeting and exchange opportunities amongst these high-profile economic, political and institutional actors. Gathering around 150 participants from Europe and Africa at every edition, amongst them a great number of our laureates, the Institut Choiseul has proved to be an unavoidable actor of networking and synergy, to the benefit of a shared growth.

Thanks to its expertise, its knowhow and its knowledge of the African continent, the Institut Choiseul also offers as well to its partners a support in their strategic decision-making process and in their international development.
